This a lovely colourful photo of a community project or something clearly socially positive. Got any ideas?

More

Undecided on this at the mo. Could be a gallery, a slideshow, or more block colour/text based...

How regularly do you think you'll want to update this section and what kinds of things will you want your users to see. Will you regularly have images you can use to bring the projects to life?

for instance- we could have a blog that you do short write ups of your projects (and other thoughts!) on, and this could link to that to read more.

otherwise if you dont have time to write much about the projects we could just have space for a larger caption description on this page with a link to say the report.

I think no.1 is best.

Heres where you can give a bit about your motivations and career experience I think go for quite a personal, friendly vibe.

Do you have any photography friends who could take a glorious hipster photo of you, against an interesting bristolicious or interestingly textured backdrop. Would be nice to have a full screen shot with the text in the forefront.
